MEDICINAL.

who are supposed to represent great strength and perfect health, are likely to die of consumption. Mere muscularity isn't always health. Disease will develop rapidly once the germs of consumption get into a man's system, and it will kill him certainly and surely if he doesn't take the proper measures to get rid of it. Exercise and work and dieting and all that sort of thing are good enough in their way, but consumption is one of the things that they won't cure. The bacillus of consumption is a living organism. It is not a germ, it is a life. The only way to get rid of it is to kill it. If it isn't killed, it will develop and multiply. Germs are only prolific in the quickest of us. In the quickest of time one becomes a thousand, and a thousand a million. Dr. Pierce's "Discovery" is a germ hunter and destroyer. Wherever a disease germ is, the "Discovery" will find it and render it harmless. It doesn't make any difference what you call your disease, if it is a germ, it is a life. All germs are in the blood. The "Golden Medical Discovery" purifies the blood—purges it of germs—churns it with life-giving force. It not only kills disease, but it builds up health. It is a tonic, a nerve, a restorative, an invigorator and blood-purifier in one bottle.

If you want to know all of the facts about this wonderful remedy—if you want to know all about the human body, and human health, and sickness and how to get rid of it, send for Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, a standard medical work of 1000 pages, profusely illustrated, which will be sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to cover cost of mailing only. This work is a complete family doctor book and should be read by both young and old. The profits on the sale of 50,000 copies at 25c each have been donated to the American Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

IN THE COILS OF A SNAKE.

Miss Mamie Higgs, the seventeen-year-old daughter of John Higgs, a wood chopper, living near Fishkill, N. Y., had a terrible experience on Wednesday. She was bitten by a large adder, which coiled about her left ankle. She will probably recover.

Mrs. Higgs, the mother, has always feared snakes, but she proved herself a heroine by seizing the reptile which coiled about her daughter's leg and trying to pull it off.

Miss Mamie and her mother stood at the front gate at dusk on Wednesday, chatting with a neighbor. Two or three of the younger generation of the Higgs family played about the yard. The gate is a rickety picket affair, which closes by means of a chain and weight. Mamie had her right foot on the chain, and was swinging it back and forth.

The neighbor on the other side of the fence said good-night and went away. Mrs. Higgs had turned to reprimand one of the children, leaving Mamie at the gate. Suddenly the young girl screamed.

"Oh, mamma! I've got a snake on me. Take it off! Take it off!" At the same time Mamie rushed toward the house.

"Mercy sakes alive! where is it?" shrieked Mrs. Higgs, gathering her skirts about her rushing to her daughter's assistance.

Before she could reach her the terrified girl, clutching her skirts with both hands, turned and fled into the street.

Then Mrs. Higgs saw what she had not before had time to observe. An object something like a thick whip thong was dangling from beneath Mamie's skirts. Only six inches of it was visible, and as the half-crazed girl fled, it sprang across the street toward the open gate of a neighbor's yard. It dived about her left shoe, coiling and uncoiling like the tentacle of a devil fish.

With each frightened leap, she took the girl uttered a scream. Close behind came Mrs. Higgs, trying in vain to catch her fleeing daughter. From the rear by houses the neighbors came pouring out like ants from a nest.

Mamie had run through the gate of "Bill" Booth's yard and was turning the corner of the house when her mother caught her. Holding the girl with one hand Mrs. Higgs reached her daughter's clothes with the other.

The reptile was gripped so tightly about the girl's leg that Mrs. Higgs could not move it. The girl was stamping and screaming and begging the neighbors to take the snake off, crying that it was killing her.

Finally she broke away from her mother and started to run again. She had taken only a few steps when the thick, ugly reptile loosed its coils and fell to the ground. Before anybody had time to kill it, the snake had crawled away under the stoop of the house.

Then Mamie fell to the ground insensible and was carried over to the little brown house and put to bed. Dr. O'Reilly was sent for. Long before he arrived the girl's legs below the knee had swollen to the size of stove pipes and she was suffering terribly.

Dr. O'Reilly administered enough whiskey to have made an old timer drunk, but it had no apparent effect on the girl.

On her left leg, below the knee, four small punctures were found. They were in pairs, which meant that the snake had bitten her twice. They were wounds which resembled the pricklings of a hypodermic syringe. Lotions were administered, and the swelling was gradually reduced, although the girl's general condition did not seem to improve.

Dr. O'Reilly found on Thursday morning that the right leg was still badly swollen. He made a close examination and found that the girl had been bitten worse, if possible, on the right than on the left leg. There were four bites along the calf of the leg, and it was evident from the young woman's condition that the poison had thoroughly permeated her system.

The girl was much better on Saturday, but the flesh about the wounds was purple and much swollen. She suffered continually from spasms and twitchings of the muscles, followed by an ironical rigor, lasting several minutes at a time. It is thought she will recover.

During the winter of 1893, F. M. Martin, of Long Reach, W. Va., contracted a severe cold which left him with a cough. In speaking of how he cured it he says: "I used several kinds of cough syrup but found no relief until I bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which relieved me almost instantly, and in a short time brought about a complete cure." When troubled with a cough or cold use this remedy and you will not find it necessary to try several kinds before you get relief. It has been in the market for over twenty years and constantly grown in favor and popularity. For sale at 25 and 50 cents per bottle by L. Stabler & Co., Druggists.

Electric Bitters.
Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alternative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted loss and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, indigestion, constipation, dizziness yield to Electric Bitters. 50c and $1 per bottle at Ernest L. Allen's Drug Store.

"Yield Not to Misfortune."
I was afflicted with catarrh last autumn. During the month of October I could neither taste or smell and could hear but little. Ely's Cream Balm cured it.—Marcus Geo. Shauz, Rahway, N. J.

I suffered from catarrh of the worst kind ever since a boy, and I never hoped for cure, but Ely's Cream Balm seems to do even that. Many acquaintances have used it with excellent results.—Oscar Ostrum, 45 Warren avenue, Chicago, Ill.

The latest results of pharmaceutical science and the best modern appliances are available in compounding Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Hence, though half-a-century in existence as a medicine, it is fully abreast of the age in all that goes to make it the standard blood-purifier.
